BL-Global Bond

From January to September 2010, the bond markets posted positive performance. The 10-year German government bond yield fell from 3.38% to 2.28% over this period. The bond markets achieved this positive performance despite inflation rising from 0.9% to 1.8% in the period. Overall, European sovereign debt was bolstered by broadly less favourable data. The deterioration in the public finances of peripheral countries continued to weigh on the premium demanded by the markets. It was therefore essentially in the core countries of the eurozone that we saw positive performance in sovereign debt. Accordingly, the manager limited the portfolio's exposure to German, French, Dutch and Finnish government bonds.

In emerging market debt, we were able to capture the market's positive performance. In the first nine months of 2010, the JP Morgan EMBI Global Diversified index posted performance of 14.25%. Overall, growth has been dynamic. Despite the context of global crisis, some issuers have been able to benefit from a rating upgrade. In particular, this was the case for Indonesia, Panama, Turkey and the Dominican Republic. The manager continued to increase his positions to take them to nearly 25% of the total portfolio. Some 70% of investments in emerging country debt were in short-term loans denominated in euros. Investments continue to be made in microfinance and these currently represent nearly 10% of the portfolio allocated to emerging countries.

Outlook

The unsustainable nature of public debt levels in industrialised countries could drive bond yields higher over the longer term. Even if only temporary, such an upturn could be sizable and start in 2011, despite the support that the bond markets are already enjoying, particularly from the Fed's quantitative easing policy. Rather than fearing a return to inflation, the biggest worry for the bond markets is the continuing deterioration in public finances in the eurozone. The emerging markets will continue to show relative solidity in terms of their macroeconomic fundamentals. Depending on developments in the industrial countries, we might well see a return to volatility on the financial markets and risky assets.

BL-Global 30

In the first nine months of 2010, there was little change in the economic and financial situation compared to that at the end of 2009. In economic terms, the global recovery continued, thanks to robust growth in emerging countries and the maintenance of public spending at high levels in developed countries. Within the eurozone, the recovery was driven by the hard-core countries headed by Germany, while activity in the peripheral countries with problematic public finances like Greece, Ireland and Spain remained depressed. On the financial side, public debt in developed economies continued to grow and reached levels that are harbouring the germs of an even deeper financial crisis than that triggered by the collapse of Lehman Brothers in September 2008.

Having risen strongly in 2009, the leading stock markets made little headway in the first nine months of 2010 despite the continuing economic recovery and the sharp increase in corporate profits. The S&P500 in the United States and the Dow Jones Stoxx 600 in Europe both increased by 2.3% while the Nikkei 225 in Japan shed 11.1%. The best performing stocks were shares in industrial companies. Emerging country stock markets saw stronger advances, with most indexes representing these regions posting increases of between 10% and 20%.

Despite their low level at the start of the year, government bond yields for most eurozone countries eased in the first nine months of 2010, pushing the JP Morgan EMU Government Bond Index up by 4.9% between December 2009 and September 2010. The performance of the index is largely due to the bond markets of the hard-core eurozone countries given that the explosion of the public finance crisis in Greece sparked a significant increase in financing costs for other countries with fragile public finances (such as Ireland and Portugal, and to a lesser extent, Spain).

Emerging country bonds posted particularly good performance, with the JP Morgan Emerging Market Bond Index Global Diversified index up 14% (in USD) between 1st January and 30th September 2010.

The financial difficulties within the eurozone led to a weakening of the single currency, resulting in the appreciation of the US dollar (+ 5.1%), the Japanese yen (+17.0%), the pound sterling (+2.2%) and the Swiss franc (+10.7%) against the euro.

Due to the scale of the structural economic problems, the manager maintained a relatively defensive strategy throughout the first nine months of 2010. There were almost no changes to the asset allocation. From the beginning of January to the end of September, net exposure to equities increased from 18% to 20.5% and to bonds from 57.5% to 60% (following an increase in the weight of emerging country bonds from 5% to 11.5%). The sensitivity of the bond portfolio remained low (4.6 at the end of September compared to 4.3 at the beginning of January).

In European equities, the manager initiated a position in Bayer. He sold positions in Brembo, GlaxoSmithKline, Bank of Ireland, Kaba, Southern Cross Healthcare and Vinci.

In US stocks, the manager initiated positions in Transocean, Apollo Group, Amgen, Hewlett-Packard, St Jude Medical, Qualcomm, Illinois Tool Works, Applied Materials and Aecom Technology. He sold positions in Schlumberger, Washington Post, CR Bard, Zimmer Holdings, Berkshire Hathaway, Federal Express, Deere & Co and Hologic. The position in Baxter International, opened in the first quarter, was sold in September.

In bonds, within the eurozone, the manager confined himself to German, French, Dutch, Finnish and Austrian government (or quasi-government) bonds, while the portfolio of emerging country debt is mainly composed of the following issuers: Mexico, Brazil, South Africa, Peru and Romania. The positions in Bulgaria were sold during the year. Apart from a 0.2% exposure to the Indonesian rupiah, emerging country bonds are denominated in euros.

At the end of September, 23% of the BL-Global 30 fund was invested in equities, 60% in bonds and 17% in cash. Net exposure to equities was 20.5% after factoring in the sale of futures on the S&P500 representing 2.5% of the portfolio's total value.

Outlook

The unsustainable nature of public debt levels could lead to an upturn in bond yields over the longer term. Such an upturn could start in 2011 despite the support that the bond markets would benefit from if the central banks were to re-engage in widespread quantitative easing. The deterioration of public finances rather than inflation will constitute the biggest risk for bond markets.

While valuation models show that equities cannot be considered cheap, the market rally that started in March 2009 might continue. The attractiveness of equities is due to a lack of investment alternatives in an environment where interest rates are close to zero, the willingness of the central banks to shore up the financial markets by an unprecedented accommodating monetary policy, and robust corporate profit growth. Nevertheless, the risk of a major stock market correction in the next three years is very high.

The performance of the index is largely due to the bond markets of the hard-core eurozone countries given that the explosion of the public finance crisis in Greece sparked a significant increase in financing costs for other countries with fragile public finances (such as Ireland and Portugal, and to a lesser extent, Spain).

Emerging country bonds posted particularly good performance, with the JP Morgan Emerging Market Bond Index Global Diversified index up 14% (in USD) between 1st January and 30th September 2010.

The financial difficulties within the eurozone led to a weakening of the single currency, resulting in the appreciation of the US dollar (+ 5.1%), the Japanese yen (+17.0%), the pound sterling (+2.2%) and the Swiss franc (+10.7%) against the euro.

Due to the scale of the structural economic problems, the manager maintained a relatively defensive strategy throughout the first nine months of 2010. There were almost no changes to the asset allocation. From the beginning of January to the end of September, net exposure to equities increased from 40.5% to 41.5%, and to bonds from 43% to 44%. The sensitivity of the bond portfolio remained low (5.2 at the end of September compared to 4.7 at the beginning of January).

In European equities, the manager initiated a position in Bayer. He sold positions in Brembo, Petroleum Geo Services, GlaxoSmithKline, Bank of Ireland, Kaba, Southern Cross Healthcare and Vinci.

In US stocks, the manager initiated positions in Transocean, Apollo Group, Amgen, Hewlett-Packard, St Jude Medical, Qualcomm, Illinois Tool Works, Applied Materials and Aecom Technology. He sold positions in Schlumberger, Washington Post, CR Bard, Zimmer Holdings, Berkshire Hathaway, Federal Express, Deere & Co and Hologic. The position in Baxter International, opened in the first quarter, was sold in September.

In bonds, within the eurozone, the manager confined himself to German, French, Dutch, and Finnish government (or quasi-government) bonds, while the portfolio of emerging country debt is mainly composed of the following issuers: Mexico, Brazil, South Africa, Peru and Romania. The positions in Poland and Bulgaria were sold during the year. Apart from a 0.5% exposure to the Indonesian rupiah, emerging country bonds are denominated in euros.

At the end of September, 49.5% of the BL-Global 50 fund was invested in equities, 44% in bonds and 7% in cash. The net equity exposure was reduced to 41.5% through the sale of futures on the S&P 500 and Dow Jones Euro Stoxx 50 indices, which represented 8% of the overall value of the portfolio.

Outlook

The unsustainable nature of public debt levels could lead to an upturn in bond yields over the longer term. Such an upturn could start in 2011 despite the support that the bond markets would benefit from if the central banks were to re-engage in widespread quantitative easing. The deterioration of public finances rather than inflation will constitute the biggest risk for bond markets.

While valuation models show that equities cannot be considered cheap, the market rally that started in March 2009 might continue. The attractiveness of equities is due to a lack of investment alternatives in an environment where interest rates are close to zero, the willingness of the central banks to shore up the financial markets by an unprecedented accommodating monetary policy, and robust corporate profit growth. Nevertheless, the risk of a major stock market correction in the next three years is very high.

BL-Equities Horizon

Since 1st January 2008, BL-Equities Horizon has been operating as a socially-responsible investment fund with the Ethibel Excellence label. In order to be able to market the fund using this label, it undertakes to invest only in companies included in the investment register compiled by Forum Ethibel, a Belgian organisation that promotes socially-responsible investing. Forum Ethibel uses research from Vigeo, a European 'extra-financial' rating agency that measures performance in terms of sustainable development and corporate social responsibility to compile its register. The Ethibel Excellence investment register is made up of more than 400 European, US and Japanese companies considered leaders in their sector in terms of corporate social responsibility and environmental engagement, based on criteria defined by Forum Ethibel. All the companies in the portfolio are included in the Ethibel investment register.

In the first nine months of 2010, the manager made few changes to the portfolio, the key feature of which is the high quality of the companies selected. By this, we mean companies with low levels of debt, maintaining relatively stable profitability through economic cycles and generating sufficient internal cash for their activities without having to resort to external sources of financing. Over a long-term investment horizon, quality companies are currently offering relatively attractive valuation levels. This is due to the unprecedented expansionary nature of monetary and fiscal policies being implemented by the public authorities. Such policies are pushing investors not to pay a premium for quality, given that the disadvantages of lower quality become less important in an environment where abundant liquidity is made available for practically nothing.

Between 1st January and 30th September, the manager opened a position in ABB, while the positions in Pernod-Ricard, Deere & Co, Gamesa Tecnologica, Deutsche Telekom and France Telecom were sold.

The Swiss industrial company ABB is world leader in the design of products and systems for the transport and distribution of electricity (high and medium voltage), and is also a key player in systems and robots for the automation of industrial tasks. ABB's technological expertise and its ability to execute large complex projects set it apart from its competitors. The company should therefore favourably be positioned to benefit from the deployment of electricity networks in the emerging markets (40% of activity), investments focusing on design and deployment of electricity transport networks generated from alternative energy sources such as solar and wind power, and technology designed to reduce electricity losses throughout the transport network.

Pernod-Ricard and France Telecom exited the portfolio because they had been taken off Forum Ethibel's investment register following an unfavourable change in their corporate social and environmental responsibility performance.

Shares in the American agricultural machinery manufacturer Deere & Co were sold for valuation reasons.

Gamesa Tecnologica and Deutsche Telekom were sold after a review of their respective investment cases. The collapse in orders at the Spanish wind-turbine producer Gamesa is jeopardising its future capacity for free cash flow generation, while the major dependency of Deutsche Telekom's operating margin on connection fees decided by the public authorities for the use of the fixed line network by competitors, ceases to justify investment in the stock if the valuation discount becomes too low.

At the end of September, cash represented 5% of the portfolio (compared to 10.5% at the start of the year).

While valuation models show that equities cannot be considered cheap, the market rally that started in March 2009 might continue. The attractiveness of equities is due to a lack of investment alternatives in an environment where interest rates are close to zero, the willingness of the central banks to shore up the financial markets by an unprecedented accommodating monetary policy, and robust corporate profit growth. Nevertheless, the risk of a major stock market correction in the next three years is very high.

BL-Equities America

The first nine months of 2010 were marked by an economic environment of positive but moderate growth. The increase in budgetary spending and the intervention of the public authorities helped progressively stabilise the economic situation in the United States. However, the employment market situation remains tough and continues to be the main obstacle to a more dynamic recovery of economic activity.

This expansionist monetary policy combined with productivity gains for companies as a result of very tight cost control has bolstered the financial markets which have continued the upturn they began in March 2009. Slightly better economic figures coupled with the Federal Reserve's announcement that it was set to embark on a new round of quantitative monetary easing was the main reason behind the market rally in September.

The manager continues to adhere to his philosophy of investing in high quality companies when their valuations are attractive. His investment philosophy is based on the concept of 'business-like investing'. This approach reflects his approach of treating each investment as if he were taking a stake in the business with a long-term investment horizon. He is constantly on the lookout for companies with a tangible competitive advantage that generate high profitability and good free cash flow potential. Investing in this way at prices offering a discount to the intrinsic value is likely to create shareholder value in the long term.

In the first nine months of the year, the manager seized numerous opportunities for investment and introduced ten new lines into the portfolio. These purchases were offset by the sale of nine other lines. Following these transactions and the takeover of fast-food chain Burger King by a private equity group, the number of positions in the portfolio remained unchanged at 51. The cash position was also virtually unchanged at 2%.

Numerous investment opportunities arose in the technology sector. Its weighting in the portfolio increased from 15% at the end of 2009 to 23% at the end of September 2010. The manager opened a position in Hewlett-Packard, the world's biggest manufacturer of PCs and printers. Because of its huge distribution network, HP occupies a major position in the marketing of computer products for individuals and professionals. After restructuring, HP can now offer clients a comprehensive range of hardware, software and services. HP is also very well positioned internally and should benefit from growth in emerging markets. Shares have also been acquired in Qualcomm, which develops technological products and systems based on mobile networks. Qualcomm has a significant number of key patents in CDMA technology, serving as a base for data transfer on the 3G mobile network. The fund manager also took a position in Applied Materials, the world's largest supplier of manufacturing systems for the semiconductor industry.

In the consumer sector, the manager bought into Apollo Group, the biggest US teaching institution. It mainly offers services via the "University of Phoenix". Due to the change in US legislation, forcing the management to restructure its product offer, the share's performance has been disappointing. Nevertheless, the manager remains confident about the company's long-term prospects. Apollo is the undisputed leader in a segment with high entry barriers and has a good reputation for its campuses and its diverse offer of online training. The entire position in Washington Post was sold for reasons of its valuation and the uncertainty over the future of the group's media activities. The manager also took advantage of the good performance of some shares to reduce their respective weight. In particular, he partially sold Philip Morris International, Safeway, Home Depot and Sysco. Following these sales, the portfolio's consumer sector weighting decreased from 38% to 29.5%.

The medical reforms instigated by the Obama government partially influenced management decisions in the healthcare sector. Although the scale of the reforms and the consequences for the various players in the sector cannot yet be measured in detail, companies in the healthcare sector will be faced with a changing environment over the next few years. From this perspective, the investment cases for these companies have been reviewed and companies with particularly uncertain prospects have been sold. Accordingly, the manager sold the fund's positions in Zimmer Holdings, Hologic and Baxter International, positions which had been purchased at the beginning of 2010. The publication of disappointing results during the year has jeopardised the durability of its competitive advantage in haemophilia. CR Bard was sold for valuation reasons. On the other hand, the manager bought St Jude Medical and Amgen. St. Jude Medical is a leading company in the design and manufacture of medical devices in the cardiovascular and neurological field. The company's presence in two niche therapeutic areas, which deal with significant treatment needs, presents considerable growth potential. Amgen is a pharmaceutical company specialising in biotechnology and has several attractive molecules in varying stages of development. Following these sales, the portfolio's healthcare sector weighting decreased from 22% to 20%.

In the industrial sector, the manager opened positions in Aecom Technology and Illinois Tool Works. Aecom Technologies is a leading consultant in engineering, design and project management services. In the long term, demand from emerging countries should sustain the company's development. In the short term, Aecom is well positioned to take advantage of governments' current spending on economic stimulation. For its part, Illinois Tool Works produces a broad range of industrial products. The group's business model is mainly based on mergers and acquisitions. It has an exemplary track record in this development strategy, focusing mainly on taking over small, less profitable companies and restructuring them. The positions in sale of Deere & Co and Fedex were sold, mainly for valuation reasons. Following these transactions, the sector's weighting was virtually unchanged at 12%.

In the energy sector, the manager invested in Transocean. Transocean is the world's biggest offshore drilling company and has a strong competitive advantage on the deep-sea drilling market. Given the technicalities and complexities of production, the supply and demand ratio should continue to favour Transocean. The position in Schlumberger was sold for valuation reasons. The sector's weighting was virtually unchanged at 4.7%.

In the financial sector, the position in Berkshire Hathaway was sold, mainly for valuation reasons. The share price of Warren Buffett's company has appreciated considerably and exceeded our sale price target. Following this sale, the sector's weighting decreased from 3.2% to 1%, with Legg Mason being the only financial company in the portfolio.

Outlook

While valuation models show that equities cannot be considered as cheap, the market rally that started in March 2009 might continue. Equities are attractive through the lack of investment alternatives in an environment of near-zero interest rates, through the willingness of the central banks to sustain the financial markets by means of an accommodating monetary policy without precedent and through a sound profitable earnings growth of corporations. Nevertheless, the risk of a major correction of the stock market within a 3 years period is very high.

BL Equities Europe invests in companies that are building or developing unique competitive advantages that are a guarantee of their hold over their markets, their operational profitability and financial health. Investments are made when the stock market valuation offers an attractive discount to our estimate of the company's intrinsic value. We usually have a long-term investment horizon but, ideally, we invest at a time when the company's return on capital employed is high and/or rising.

In the first nine months of 2010, in a difficult economic climate, but one in which financial markets were bolstered by fiscal stimulus measures and corporate productivity gains resulting from tight cost control, our investment decisions were based on an active search for discounted investment opportunities. Across all the portfolio's positions, the assets under management were thus spread more evenly than in previous years, in order to extract the full revaluation potential of the shares held. The number of companies held in the portfolio was reduced from 50 at the start of the year to 46 positions at 30 September 2010. However, the portfolio's 10 biggest positions represented the same proportion as at the end of 2009, i.e. around 33%.

The structure of the portfolio thus continued to evolve over the first nine months of 2010. Our investment decisions, based on factors specific to the companies under consideration, resulted in increasing exposure to chemicals and technology stocks, while exposure to non-cyclical consumer and healthcare stocks was reduced. Exposure to industrial, energy and discretionary consumer sectors remained stable. As in previous years and for reasons linked to our methodology, the portfolio's structure was very different from its benchmark, with greater exposure to healthcare, consumer goods, chemicals, technology and industrials, and lower exposure to financials, telecommunications and media.

The fundamental criteria for introducing a stock into the portfolio, particularly balance sheet quality, good prospects for cash generation and attractive dividend yield, remain valid and are an integral part of our methodology. During the period, the manager introduced the following five stocks into the portfolio.

The UK company United Business Media, has a strong competitive advantage and a management team that strives to enhance the quality of the group's assets and keep its net debt at a level that does not hamper the business. The company's valuation, which reflects a very pessimistic margin, offers an attractive security margin and a dividend yield of over 5.5 % which is what has attracted us to this company. United Business Media is a leading provider of professional information and offers services such as market research, advisory services, information distribution, publishing and event organisation for its clients located around the world. Its leading brands including NOP World, one of the world's leading market research companies, PR Newswire, global leader in news and press release distribution services, and CMP, the business-to-business communications company specialised in high-tech sectors, healthcare, leisure, jewellery and fashion in the US, Europe and Asia. Over the past few years, UBM has significantly increased the quality of its assets by developing its portfolio in more profitable growth markets, particularly in event management and fast-growing markets in Asia. On structural bear markets, UBM should have what it takes to increase its geographical hold to continue to win market share.

Bayer has chosen to continue its diversified activity in three business sectors. Bayer is currently the world's third-largest company in the agrochemicals market. This masks its position as global leader in crop protection thanks to its strong productivity in R&D, and its emerging role (nevertheless fourth-largest in the world and growing fast) on the grain market by specialising in particular crops (maize, cereals, rice). The structural factors favourable to this activity, in particular those supporting our investment case for Syngenta, the second-largest global player in agrochemicals - the increase in global consumption, lack of availability of agricultural land and climate change - also play out in Bayer's favour. In pharmaceuticals, Bayer is a small player but has a strong presence in consumer products (the second-biggest global player) with stable profitability and some excellent drug franchises: Yasmin in contraception, Betaseron in multiple sclerosis, Kogenate in haemophilia. This pharmaceutical division has some of the sector's most exciting development prospects, due to new compounds at an advanced stage of development that are highly likely candidates for marketing (especially Xarelto for thrombosis and Riociguat for pulmonary hypertension), biologically developed compounds (Betaseron, Kogenate) which raise the entry barriers, and a below-sector-average generic risk. Lastly, Bayer is present in the most cyclical activities - speciality chemicals (especially the production of polycarbonates discovered by Bayer in 1953) destined for the automobile industry, construction and the electronics sector. In this area of activity, Bayer's strategy consists of maintaining cost competitiveness.

Tecnicas Reunidas is an international contractor specialising in the engineering, design and construction of industrial sites, primarily in the gas, oil and energy sectors. The Group has become one of the leading global contractors in downstream oil sector infrastructure (including refineries and petrochemical plants) through the use of proprietary technologies and the expertise accumulated since 1959, both elements constituting significant entry barriers in the industry. Its large base in the sector has, over time, enabled it to successfully engage in oil exploration and processing of natural gas (liquefaction, regasification). Tecnicas is currently showing an order backlog representing 2½ years of activity, thanks to a new cycle of investment in oil infrastructure and energy. The group has won a comfortable share of tenders including a number from the Middle East and Latin America awarded by both private companies and governments. Despite the risks inherent in carrying out this type of activity, Tecnicas Reunidas's history of project execution, quality management, strong balance sheet and a substantial degree of family ownership, rare in this sector, strengthens the attractiveness of the security. In making an initial investment, we are taking advantage of a weakness in the stock price due to a readjustment of the corporation tax rate.

Imtech is a technical services provider in the fields of electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, information technology and communications. The group designs, installs, monitors and maintains electrical, heating, ventilation, cooling, security and water systems in buildings, infrastructure, industrial sites and the shipbuilding industry. Imtech is therefore an indispensable and high added value partner specialising in the development and management of technological solutions, such as traffic control systems for better management of traffic flow, intelligent logistics systems for improved tracking in the supply chain, digitalization of surgical procedures for better patient care, automation of industrial production or vessel maintenance platforms, electrical and climate control systems in buildings and infrastructure, navigation systems for ships, as well as water management and treatment systems. Imtech has a strong brand image due to its expertise and the reliability of its services. The company is still primarily a European player but has a customer base of over 20,000 customers and very balanced array of services. The group generates strong and recurrent cash flow (50% to 55% of revenues are recurring) and has a sound balance sheet. This stability enables it to undertake targeted acquisitions (in order to acquire technology and/or enter a market), for which the company has an excellent history of integration.

Sulzer, a Swiss industrial group operating in 120 countries, has a diversified activity but enjoys very strong brand recognition in its various businesses. The company's activity is divided into four segments: high pressure pumps accounting for half of all sales (world leader in the paper industry and second in the petroleum and energy sectors), surface technology (leader in coating equipment and materials for the energy, aviation and automotive industries), separation columns (e.g. for the distillation of petroleum into its various derivatives), and maintenance service provision (leader in gas turbines, steam turbines and turbo compressors). Since its inception in 1834, Sulzer has been at the forefront of innovation in industrial engineering for such technologies as steam engines, refrigeration equipment, compressors and pumps, the latter finding their way on to export markets since 1880. The group continues to base its development on product differentiation, while focusing on research, bolstering its capacity for renovation and strengthening its hold on end markets. Equally buoyant, its opportunities in emerging markets now account for 40% of its turnover as compared to 30% in Europe and 30% in the United States. These figures provide some indication of its business and margins in view of the significant industrial investment needs in EM regions. Sulzer also offers a good return on invested capital, recurrent cash flow generation, a consistently strong balance sheet fuelling organic growth and small targeted acquisitions, while maintaining a payout ratio of 35% of profits.

At the same time, the manager invested in Aalberts, ABB, Adidas, CRH, Danone, Getinge, Indra Sistemas, Intertek, Sage, SAP, Sika and Syngenta because of their attractive valuation and in BAT, Deutsche Börse, ENI, Neopost and Total for their dividend yield.

The fund manager sold off nine investments in the first nine months of 2010.

Fielmann and GlaxoSmithKline were sold for valuation reasons. Aryzta, Kaba Holdings and Vinci were sold at an attractive valuation given their activities' lack of dynamism compared to alternative investment opportunities. Brembo and Petroleum Geo Services were sold due to uncertainties over the profitability of their business model. Lastly, Southern Cross Healthcare and Bank of Ireland were sold as the investment cases for these two positions ceased to be valid during the year.

Alongside this, depending on their valuation level, the manager reduced the positions in some stocks that had been held for a long time and represented a significant weighting in the portfolio, in order to free cash for other investments - Diageo, Nestlé, Novartis, Reckitt Benckiser and Swedish Match. Investments in Geberit, Schindler and SKF were reduced following their good performance. However, for Roche, the reason for the partial sale of the position was a weaker investment case.

Outlook

While valuation models show that equities cannot be considered as cheap, the market rally that started in March 2009 might continue. Equities are attractive through the lack of investment alternatives in an environment of near-zero interest rates, through the willingness of the central banks to sustain the financial markets by means of an accommodating monetary policy without precedent and through a sound profitable earnings growth of corporations. Nevertheless, the risk of a major correction of the stock market within a 3 years period is very high.

In the first nine months of 2010, there was little change in the economic and financial situation compared to that at the end of 2009. In economic terms, the global recovery continued thanks to robust growth in emerging countries and the maintenance of public spending at high levels in developed countries. Within the eurozone, the recovery was driven by the hard-core countries headed by Germany, while activity in the peripheral countries with problematic public finances like Greece, Ireland and Spain remained depressed. On the financial side, public debt in developed economies continued to grow and reached levels that are harbouring the germs of an even deeper financial crisis than that triggered by the collapse of Lehman Brothers in September 2008.

Having risen strongly in 2009, the leading stock markets made little headway in the first nine months of 2010 despite the continuing economic recovery and the sharp increase in corporate profits. The S&P500 in the United States and the Dow Jones Stoxx 600 in Europe both increased by 2.3% while the Nikkei 225 in Japan shed 11.1%. The best performing stocks were shares in industrial companies. Emerging country stock markets saw stronger advances, with most indexes representing these regions posting increases of between 10% and 20%.

Despite their low level at the start of the year, government bond yields for most eurozone countries eased in the first nine months of 2010, pushing the JP Morgan EMU Government Bond Index up by 4.9% between December 2009 and September 2010. The performance of the index is largely due to the bond markets of the hard-core eurozone countries given that the explosion of the public finance crisis in Greece sparked a significant increase in financing costs for other countries with fragile public finances (such as Ireland and Portugal, and to a lesser extent, Spain).

Emerging country bonds posted particularly good performance, with the JP Morgan Emerging Market Bond Index Global Diversified index up 14% (in USD) between 1st January and 30th September 2010.

The financial difficulties within the eurozone led to a weakening of the single currency, resulting in the appreciation of the US dollar (+ 5.1%), the Japanese yen (+17.0%), the pound sterling (+2.2%) and the Swiss franc (+10.7%) against the euro.

The fund manager opted for a relatively defensive strategy in light of his lack of conviction about the sustainability of the economic recovery. He therefore maintained the net equity allocation between 74% and 85% throughout the first nine months of the year.

At the end of the third quarter 2010, BL-Equities Dividend was 99% invested in equities. This net equity exposure was reduced to 83% through the sale of futures on the Dow Jones Euro Stoxx 50 and the FTSE 100 indices, which represented 16% of the portfolio's total value.

In geographical terms, the portfolio mainly invests in the eurozone and the Pacific Rim.

In terms of sector allocation, over a quarter of the portfolio is invested in telecommunications stocks.

Outlook

While the valuation models show that equities cannot be considered as cheap, the market rally that started in March 2009 might continue. Equities are attractive through the lack of investment alternatives in an environment of near-zero interest rates, through the willingness of central banks to sustain the financial markets by means of an accommodating monetary policy without precedent and through a sound profitable earnings growth of corporations. Nevertheless, the risk of a major correction of the stock market within a 3 years period is very high.

BL-Bond Euro

From January to September 2010, the bond markets posted positive performance. The 10-year German government bond yield fell from 3.38% to 2.28% over these nine months. The bond markets achieved this positive performance despite inflation rising from 0.9% to 1.8% in the period. Overall, European sovereign debt was bolstered by broadly less favourable data. The deterioration in the public finances of peripheral countries continued to weigh on the premium demanded by the markets. It was therefore essentially in the core countries of the eurozone that we saw positive performance in sovereign debt. Accordingly, the manager limited the portfolio's exposure to German, French, Dutch and Finnish government bonds.

Outlook

The unsustainable nature of public debt levels could drive bond yields higher over the longer term. Even if only temporary, such an upturn could be sizable and start in 2011, despite the support that the bond markets have enjoyed particularly from the Fed's quantitative easing policy. Rather than fearing a return to inflation, the biggest worry for the bond markets is the continuing deterioration in public finances in the eurozone.

BL-Bond Dollar

The first quarter 2010 was marked by relative stability on the US government debt market. Yields rose and fell with no particular trend, reacting to economic news and the relatively packed schedule of new issues by the US Treasury.

This was followed by the Greek public finance crisis, which gradually transformed into a euro crisis. Playing their role of safe haven to the full, US Treasury bonds were boosted by investors' increased aversion to risk, which pushed up prices throughout the second quarter.

Bond yields were volatile in the third quarter 2010. Government bonds nevertheless closed the quarter higher. Overall, sovereign debt was bolstered by broadly less favourable data on the state of the European and American economies.

With inflation keeping low in the United States, the US Federal Reserve maintained its Fed funds rate at around 0% throughout the period.

The 10-year US Treasury bond yield slumped between 1 January and 30 September, from 3.84% at the start of the year to 2.5% nine months later. Bond prices, which move inversely to yields, thus rose sharply in the period.

As yields fell, the BL-Bond Dollar fund manager gradually reduced the portfolio's sensitivity to interest rates to 4.5 against 5.2 for the benchmark index.

A change in the prospectus at the start of the third quarter enabled the fund manager to diversify the fund's portfolio by gradually investing in emerging market debt. The fund's exposure to emerging market debt was therefore gradually increased over the period and by the end of the third quarter was just under 25%. The fund invested in bonds denominated in USD.

During the third quarter, emerging market debt continued to perform well, buoyed by the relatively better macro-economic fundamentals in these countries compared to the industrialised countries. Accordingly, the JP Morgan EMBI Global Diversified index gained 8.23% and the spread against the US Treasury fell by 52 basis points, ending the quarter at 302 basis points.

Outlook

The unsustainable nature of public debt levels could lead to an upturn in bond yields over the longer term. Such an upturn could begin in 2011 despite the support that the bond markets have enjoyed due to the Fed's quantitative easing policy. The deterioration of public finances rather than inflation will constitute the biggest risk for bond markets.

The emerging markets will continue to show relative solidity in terms of their macroeconomic fundamentals. Depending on developments in the industrial countries, we might well see a return to volatility on the financial markets and risky assets.

BL-Short Term Euro

The European Central Bank played a key role in 2010. In addition to the refinancing rate which remained unchanged at 1%, there has been an unlimited volume of allocations during tenders from the ECB but these are starting to be restricted to three months. The ECB has also stepped up its quantitative easing policy by buying government securities from peripheral countries.

These measures have restored a certain level of normality to the markets: the short-term European 3-month Eonia and Euribor (on which the fund is indexed) are still on a rising trend in keeping with the ECB's refinancing rate.

Outlook

Although eurozone growth has turned out to be relatively robust despite the tightening of budget policy, this buoyancy could be slightly upset by the renewed tension in the peripheral European countries. As well as Greece, the problems in Ireland and Portugal are likely to introduce volatility and a certain level of risk aversion to the financial markets.

In this context of budget consolidation, the fund manager is targeting performance in line with money-market rates by investing in systemically important banks.

BL-Short Term Dollar

The recovery in the US economy is still rather hesitant with structural problems on the labour and real-estate market.

Furthermore, the result of the mid-term elections is not likely to lead to new support measures. Against this backdrop, only the Federal Reserve has room for manoeuvre and it has just embarked on second round of quantitative easing (QE2) - in other words, it is buying up government medium and long-term bonds.

Outlook

Given the political stalemate and the weakness of the economic recovery, the market is undoubtedly expecting that monetary policy will remain accommodating but is not convinced of the efficiency of the measures taken.

The fund manager is targeting performance in line with money-market rates by investing in systemically important banks.

BL-Global Flexible

In the first nine months of 2010, there was little change in the economic and financial situation compared to that at the end of 2009. In economic terms, the global recovery continued thanks to robust growth in emerging countries and the maintenance of public spending at high levels in developed countries. Within the eurozone, the recovery was driven by the hard-core countries headed by Germany, while activity in the peripheral countries with problematic public finances like Greece, Ireland and Spain remained depressed. On the financial side, public debt in developed economies continued to grow and reached levels that are harbouring the germs of an even deeper financial crisis than that triggered by the collapse of Lehman Brothers in September 2008.

Having risen strongly in 2009, the leading stock markets made little headway in the first nine months of 2010 despite the continuing economic recovery and the sharp increase in corporate profits. The S&P500 in the United States and the Dow Jones Stoxx 600 in Europe both increased by 2.3% while the Nikkei 225 in Japan shed 11.1%. The best performing stocks were shares in industrial companies. Emerging country stock markets saw stronger advances, with most indexes representing these regions posting increases of between 10% and 20%.

Despite their low level at the start of the year, government bond yields for most eurozone countries eased in the first nine months of 2010, pushing the JP Morgan EMU Government Bond Index up by 4.9% between December 2009 and September 2010. The performance of the index is largely due to the bond markets of the hard-core eurozone countries given that the explosion of the public finance crisis in Greece sparked a significant increase in financing costs for other countries with fragile public finances (such as Ireland and Portugal, and to a lesser extent, Spain).

Emerging country bonds posted particularly good performance, with the JP Morgan Emerging Market Bond Index Global Diversified index up 14% (in USD) between 1st January and 30th September 2010.

The financial difficulties within the eurozone led to a weakening of the single currency, resulting in the appreciation of the US dollar (+ 5.1%), the Japanese yen (+17.0%), the pound sterling (+2.2%) and the Swiss franc (+10.7%) against the euro.

The fund manager maintained a relatively defensive strategy throughout the year. In his opinion, the economic recovery in the industrialised countries remains weak and there are numerous risks hanging over the financial markets. The net allocation to equities fluctuated between 30% and 45% in the first nine months of the year. In the equity portion, emerging markets and high-quality companies, continued to be the favoured themes. The decline in long-term interest rates was turned to advantage to reduce the weight of bonds in the portfolio.

At the end of September 2010, 86% of the BL-Global Flexible fund was invested in equities, 10% in bonds and 4% in cash. The net equity exposure was reduced to 38% through the sale of futures on the S&P 500, Dow Jones Euro Stoxx 50 and the FTSE 100 indices, which represented 48% of the overall value of the portfolio.

Outlook

The fund manager will remain open to further rebalancing opportunities arising from economic developments and relative valuations between asset classes.

BL-Optinvest (Euro)

The first quarter of 2010 was marked by sharp volatility on the European bond markets with highly contrasting developments within the eurozone. While the more fragile countries raised concerns and the increasing suspicion of investors, sovereign government bonds considered the most robust (with Germany and Netherlands in the forefront) were boosted by their status as the last safe haven.

Following on from this, the Greek public finances crisis gradually transformed into a euro crisis, pushing the EU finance ministers and the IMF to implement an unprecedented rescue package worth €750 billion designed to bail out any of the eurozone countries requiring support and accordingly prevent the contagion from the Greece crisis spreading to other heavily-indebted countries such as Spain, Portugal and Ireland.

Bond yields were volatile in the third quarter 2010. Government bonds nevertheless closed the quarter higher. Overall, European sovereign debt was bolstered by broadly less favourable data reflecting the state of the European and American economies.

Inflation in the eurozone gradually picked up from the lows of 2009 settling at 1.6%. In light of this, the ECB confirmed that it would maintain an accommodating monetary policy in a bid to support the economy. Although the European Central Bank began to cut back on its extraordinary liquidity injections into the markets in the third quarter, it kept its key interest rate was left unchanged at 1% throughout the period under review. In Europe, the economic recovery is still too fragile to justify any monetary tightening in the coming months.

The 10-year German bund yield fell significantly from 1 January to 30 September 2010, dropping from 3.4 % at the start of the year to 2.28% nine months later. Bond prices, which move inversely to yields, thus rose sharply in the period.

As yields fell, the fund manager gradually lowered the portfolio's sensitivity to interest rates to 3.75, which is 40% below the benchmark index at 6.2.

Outlook

The unsustainable nature of public debt levels could drive bond yields higher over the longer term. Even if only temporary, such an upturn could be sizable and start in 2011, despite the support that the bond markets have enjoyed particularly from the Fed's quantitative easing policy. Rather than fearing a return to inflation, the biggest worry for the bond markets is the continuing deterioration in public finances in the eurozone.

BL-Emerging Markets

From 1st January to 30th September, the MSCI Net Emerging Markets index rose 17.6% in euros. Emerging market shares exceeded their pre-Lehman Brothers bankruptcy level of September 2008 and are close to their all-time high reached at the end of 2007.

This good performance is partly explained by the fundamentals of these countries, which are now better than those of industrialised countries. The fact is that, unlike developed countries, the majority of emerging countries have not seen a collapse of their banking system and they have sizeable monetary reserves. Emerging countries have harnessed other growth vectors that are less likely to fail.

On the currency markets, almost all the Asian and Latin American countries have appreciated against the US dollar and the euro. In addition, to avoid excessively penalising their exporting companies, the governments of some emerging countries have already responded to competitive devaluations. For example, Brazil and Thailand have imposed capital controls to slow down the appreciation of their currencies and countries such as South Korea and Indonesia are considering similar measures.

At the end of September 2010, 68% of the BL-Emerging Markets fund was invested in equities, 20% in bonds and 12% in cash. The geographical allocation was 53% in Asia, 19% in Latin America and 16% in Eastern Europe / Turkey / Africa / Israel (with the remainder in cash). The manager continued his very selective approach of companies that have a significant competitive advantage and are trading at a reasonable valuation. Since the start of the year, the manager has thus opened positions on the shares of Murray&Roberts, Weg, CCU, Woongjin Coway, Bezeq, Teva, Attijariwafa Bank, Maroc Telecom, Grupo Televisa, K-Green, Krka and Anadolu Efes.

In the bond portfolio, in the first nine months of 2010, the JP Morgan EMBI Global Diversified index posted performance of 14.25%. Overall, growth has been dynamic. Despite the context of global crisis, some issuers have been able to benefit from a rating upgrade. In particular, this was the case for Indonesia, Panama, Turkey and the Dominican Republic. The manager continued to increase the fund's positions, notably by diversifying to new issuers and currencies such as Romania, Morocco and the Mexican peso. Positions in IDR and BRL have been increased.

Outlook

In contrast with the industrialised markets, the emerging markets are in a structural bull market cycle. There will be some persistent volatility, however, given that they are currently still strongly affected by foreign capital. But many investors are ready to increase their exposure to emerging countries and this quest for growth might well lead to an increase in the value of emerging companies. The fund manager will remain open to further rebalancing opportunities arising from economic developments and from relative valuations between asset classes.

This evaluation could be significantly different from the realization value of these assets if the funds had to sell them to the market conditions.

as at 30th September 2010

Note 1 - Principal accounting methods

The financial reports of the SICAV have been drawn up in accordance with the legal and regulatory provisions on Undertakings for Collective Investment in force in Luxembourg.

a) Valuation of securities in portfolio and derivative products

Securities, future contracts, options and money market instruments listed or traded on an official stock exchange are valued at the latest available closing price.

Securities, future contracts, options and money market instruments traded on another regulated official stock exchange, which functions regularly and is open to the public, are valued at the available closing price.

As at 30th September 2010, the investments of the SICAV was drawn up on the basis of the prices on 29th September 2010. However the valuations indicated in the annual report are not significantly different from those shown on 30th September 2010.

Money-market instruments and fixed-income securities may be valued on the basis of the amortized cost, a method that takes into account constant amortization following purchase in order to reach the redemption price at maturity of the security. In an illiquid market these assets are valued with their fair value estimated on the basis of mathematical models or others alternatives methods of evaluation.

Holdings of undertakings for collective investment are valued at the latest official Net Asset Value per share or at the latest estimated Net Asset Value if this is more recent than the official Net Asset Value. In this case, the SICAV must provide assurance that the valuation method used for this estimation is consistent with the valuation method used to calculate the official Net Asset Value.

In the case of securities held in portfolio on the Valuation Day that are not listed or traded on an official stock exchange or other official regulated market, which functions regularly and is open to the public; or in the case of securities listed and traded on a stock exchange or other similar market whose valuation is determined using the methods described in the first and second paragraphs above but which is not representative of the true market value of these securities, the valuation is based on the probable value of the foreseeable sales price, which is estimated using prudence and good faith (see also note 15).

The promissory notes held by the sub-fund BL-Global Bond are valued at par value; this valuation is subject to a monthly review by an independent organization. This value, increased by the accrued interests, will be adjusted in case of a critical situation or an extraordinary event

The value of cash in hand or on deposit, notes payable on demand, accounts receivable, dividends and interest declared and payable but not yet received, is determined using the nominal value of these assets, unless it is deemed impossible that such value can be realised. In this case the value will be determined by deducting a sum that the Board of Directors considers to reflect the real value of such assets.

Other net assets in currencies other than those of the relevant sub-fund shall be converted into the currency of the sub-fund at the average exchange rate on the closing date.

b) Net realised profit or loss on the securities portfolio

The net realised profit or loss on sales is calculated on the basis of the average cost of securities sold.

c) Conversion of foreign currencies

The consolidated financial statements of the SICAV are drawn up in EUR and are the sum of the corresponding entries in the financial statements of each sub-fund, converted into EUR at the exchange rate prevailing at the date of this report:

1 EUR = 1.3604500 USD US Dollar

Within the various sub-funds, assets in bank as well as other net assets and the market value of securities in portfolio denominated in currencies other than that of the sub-fund are converted into the currency of the sub-fund at the average exchange rate on the closing date. Income and expenses in currencies other than those of the sub-fund are converted to the currency of the sub-fund at the exchange rate prevailing on the date the transaction takes place.

d) Purchase price of securities in portfolio

The purchase price of securities denominated in currencies other than those of the sub-fund is calculated on the basis of the exchange rates prevailing on the purchase date.

e) Allocation of costs

Non-individualised costs are allocated to the different sub-funds on a pro-rata basis based on the net assets of each sub-fund.

f) Costs of formation

If the launch of a sub-fund occurs after the launch date of the SICAV, the costs of formation in relation to the launch of the new sub-fund shall be charged to such sub-fund alone and may be amortized over a maximum of five years with effect from the sub-fund's launch date.

g) Foreign exchange contracts

Foreign exchange gains or losses resulting from outstanding forward foreign exchange contracts are determined on the closing date on the basis of the forward rate for the remaining term of the contract applicable at that date, and are recorded in the statement of net assets and the statement of operations and other changes in net assets.

h) Swap contracts

Swap contracts are posted off-balance sheet and valued at their last known price on the stock exchanges or regulated markets for that purpose. Realised and unrealised gain or loss are recorded in the statement of net assets and in the statement of operations and other changes in net assets.

Note 2 - Commission on shares issued, converted and redeemed

Shares are issued at the Net Asset Value on the day following receipt of the subscription order, plus a maximum commission of 5%, which shall be paid to the Distribution Agents. In the case of BL-Short Term Euro and BL-Short Term Dollar a maximum 2% subscription fee shall be levied.

as at 30th September 2010

Switches between sub-funds may be carried out on each "Valuation Day" by converting shares from one sub-fund into shares of another sub-fund except in case of suspension of one or both sub-funds concerned. No specific conversion fee shall be charged for share conversions, except to BL-Short Term Euro and BL-Short Term Dollar for which the conversion fee shall be 3% (maximum) for conversions to sub-funds that are not "short term".

No exit fee shall be levied for redeeming shares.

Note 3 - Management fees

The management fee is payable quarterly and is calculated on the basis of the average net assets of each sub-fund for the relevant quarter.

The BANQUE DE LUXEMBOURG FUND RESEARCH & ASSET MANAGEMENT S.A. receives directly from the SICAV an annual commission for the following sub-funds, at the rates indicated below:

Note 10 - Securities lending agreements

At the date of the report, the SICAV had not entered into securities lending agreements.

Note 11 - Belgian subscription duty ("taxe d'abonnement belge")

Articles 307 to 311 of the Belgian law of 22nd December 2003 require that undertakings for collective investment governed by Luxembourg law and authorised for public distribution in Belgium pay an annual tax of 0.08% on the total net amount invested in Belgium as at 31st December of the preceding year starting at the date the undertakings were registered with the "Commission bancaire, financière et des assurances". The aforementioned articles 307 to 311 came into force on 1st January 2004.

The SICAV is required to pay this tax on 31st March of each year.

Note 12 - Total expense ratio ("TER") and portfolio turnover rate ("PTR")

The TER and the PTR disclosed under "Statistical information" of this report are calculated in accordance with the "Guidelines on the calculation and disclosure of the TER and PTR of collective investment schemes" issued by the Swiss Funds Association "SFA" on 16th May 2008.

Following to the change of the financial year, the TER have been annualised and the PTR have been calculated for the last 9 months preceding the date of this report.

Transaction fees are not taken into account in the calculation of the TER.

The PTR has been calculated according to the following formula  $(Total\ 1 - Total\ 2)/M \times 100$

with  $Total\ 1 = Total\ securities\ transactions = X + Y$

X = Securities purchases

Y = Securities sales

$Total\ 2 = Total\ subscriptions\ and\ redemptions = S + T$

S = subscriptions

T = redemptions

S+T: subscriptions and redemptions are netted per NAV calculation day.

M = average net assets

If a fund invests at least 10% of its assets in other funds which publish a TER within the meaning of the guidelines issued the 16th May 2008 by the Swiss Funds Association "SFA", a synthetic TER of the fund of funds is to be calculated as of the closing date of the financial year or the end of the first half of the financial year. This corresponds to the sum of the prorated TER of the individual target fund, weighted on the basis of their proportion in the net fund assets of the fund as the closing date, the issue and redemption commissions of the target funds actually paid and the TER of the fund of funds minus the retrocessions received from the target funds during the reporting period. The synthetic TER is calculated with available information at the time of the establishment of this document.

Note 15 - Valuation of selected securities

Since the end-of-year 2007, given the absence of liquidity on certain segments in the bond markets and low volumes on some bonds, the Board of Directors of the SICAV decides that the prices of some securities held in the BL-Short Term Euro and BL-Short Term Dollar given by the usual price suppliers such as Bloomberg, Reuters and Telekurs will no longer be taken as representing the fundamental economic value of these securities. In these circumstances and given the guarantee contract with BANQUE DE LUXEMBOURG in 2008 as well as the proposal of this one to guarantee the liquidity of securities, the Board of Directors has implemented an alternative evaluation model for the securities concerned. According to the model, securities are valued using discounted cash flow with credit spreads fixed at the levels of January 2008. As at 30th September 2010, assets valued according to this model represented 64.70% of net assets of the sub-fund BL-Short Term Euro and 72.62% of net assets of the sub-fund BL-Short Term Dollar. No particular arrangements were necessary for any of the other securities in the sub-funds.

A Valuation Committee made up of members of the Board of Directors routinely monitors the portfolio of the concerned sub-funds and determines the relevance of the alternative valuation model. As at 22nd July 2010 this Committee decided to maintain the valuation model unchanged.

Note 16 - Guarantee received by the SICAV

Given the instability on the financial markets, the SICAV's Board of Directors decided in 2008 to take up a guarantee with BANQUE DE LUXEMBOURG to protect the sub-funds BL-Short Term Euro and BL-Short Term Dollar against issuer default. This guarantee has a maturity on 22nd December 2013. The guarantee covers fixed-income and floating-rate securities excluding issuers linked to BANQUE DE LUXEMBOURG, sovereign issuers, issuers benefiting from state guarantees, issuers already in default and some structured product, held in portfolio. The guarantee contract provides that in the case of default by an issuer, the Bank shall pay to the fund, against the transfer of the ownership of the security concerned, an equivalent amount of the benchmark value established between the parties on 30th September 2008. In return, the guarantor receives since 4th April 2009 an annual commission of 0.2% of the value of the portfolio covered.
