DNB Fund - TMT Absolute Return, unitclass EUR

ISIN: LU0547714526
DNB Asset Management S.A.

DNB Fund - TMT Absolute Return a sub-fund of DNB Fund

OBJECTIVES AND INVESTMENT POLICY

Objective Positive return regardless of market conditions (absolute return).

Fund Structure The fund has the ability to benefit from movements in the prices of equities — either up or down. Specifically, the fund takes long and short positions in equities of technology, media and telecom companies anywhere in the world.

Derivatives play an integral role in the fund's investment approach. The fund uses derivatives to create its short positions. The fund may also use derivatives as a substitute for direct investment in securities and as a means of reducing or canceling out its exposure to various investment risks (hedging).

Investment Process The Investment Manager uses its own analysis to determine which equities appear most likely to rise in value and which appear most likely to fall. The Investment Manager then takes long positions on the former and short positions (using derivatives) on the latter.

Benchmark German 3 mth Bubill. The sub-fund's manager has the discretionary choice to make investment decisions independent of the benchmark.

Trading Units of the fund trade every day that is a business day both in Luxembourg and in the fund's primary market. Orders to buy, convert or sell fund units that are received in good order at the Central Administration by 20:00 CET will be processed the next business day.

The fund issues only accumulation units (units in which any net income is added to the unit value).

Designed For Sophisticated investors who understand the fund's risk and its complex design.

Recommendation This fund may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money within 5 years.

Investment concepts to understand

Debt Securities Securities that represent an obligation to repay a debt, with interest. High quality debt securities are those that are viewed as being highly likely to make all scheduled payments of interest and principal.

Derivatives Financial instruments whose value is linked to one or more rates, indexes, share prices, or other values.

Long Position An investment position that gains value when a certain price goes up, and loses value if the same price goes down.

Equities Securities that represent an ownership share in a company.

Short Position An investment position that loses value when a certain price goes up, and gains value if the same price goes down.

Benchmark A weighted average of representative securities in a stock market enabling tracking of a market's changes over time.

RISK AND REWARD PROFILE

The value of an investment in the fund can go up and down. When you sell your units, they may be worth less than what you paid for them. If your currency as an investor is different from the subscription currency of the fund, changes in currency exchange rates could reduce any investment gains or increase any investment losses.

The risk/reward rating above is an estimate; it is not guaranteed. The rating is based on medium-term volatility (how sharply the fund's share price has gone up and down over a recent period, generally several years). Going forward, the fund's actual volatility could be greater or lesser, and its risk/reward rating could change. A rating of 1 does not indicate a risk free investment.

The fund's risk level reflects the following factor:

- The fund pursues a complex investment strategy that involves extensive use of derivatives.

In addition, the rating does not reflect the possible effects of unusual market conditions or large unpredictable events. These could result in greater losses or volatility than the rating may indicate. In particular, the following risks (listed in no significant order) could increase during unusual conditions:

Concentration risk To the extent that the fund invests heavily in a company, industry or country that is heavily affected by an adverse event, its share price could fall.

Counterparty risk The fund could lose money if an entity with which it does business becomes unwilling or unable to honor its obligations to the fund.

Credit risk Issuers of debt securities — even highly rated ones — could be unable to make payments to investors, or the fear of this risk could cause the value of their debt securities to fall.

Derivatives risk Certain derivatives could behave unexpectedly or could expose the fund to losses that are significantly greater than the cost of the derivative.

Liquidity risk Certain securities could become hard to value, or to sell at a desired time and price.

Management risk Portfolio management techniques that have worked well in normal market conditions could prove ineffective or detrimental during unusual conditions.
