Tracking Error

In tracking the performance of the index, some of the funds attempt to replicate the index by investing all, or substantially all, of their assets in the securities that make up the index, holding each in approximately the same proportion as its weighting in the index. Others attempt to select those securities that will create the representative sample that tracks the performance of the index as closely as possible. Optimisation or stratified sampling techniques, or both, are used to create the sample. Tracking error measures the volatility of the return difference between the fund and the index. It is calculated as the standard deviation of the tracking difference between the fund and the index (gross of fees for the trailing 36-month period, or since the fund's inception if it does not have 36 months of performance history).

There are two types of tracking error displayed for the funds, swung and unswung. The funds use swing pricing, which adjusts the funds' NAV on a daily basis to ensure no significant transaction costs by investing or redeeming clients are borne by the existing unitholders. As a result, the performance difference relative to the benchmark and therefore the tracking error will be higher on a swung basis. Unswung tracking error shows the underlying performance of the funds without swing pricing applied.

The table below contains unswung ex-post tracking error.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Emerging Markets Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of companies in emerging markets.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions. US stocks held up relatively well, especially compared with European and emerging-market stocks, but still finished the half year down.
- For the period, the fund's benchmark returned -9.78%. Of the benchmark's 11 industry sectors, only three – health care, communication services and consumer discretionary – were in positive territory. Energy, financials and real estate produced the lowest returns.
- China, the benchmark's largest market, was in positive territory. All other markets posted negative returns during the period, with Colombia, Greece and Brazil producing the worst results.

All returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard ESG Developed World All Cap Equity Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of The FTSE Developed All Cap ex Controversies/Non-Renewable Energy/Vice Products/Weapons Index.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans, and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions. US stocks held up relatively well, especially compared with European and emerging-market stocks, but still finished the half year down.
- On 13 May 2020 the fund changed its name from Vanguard SRI Global Stock Fund and adopted a new index. The index is constructed from the FTSE Developed All Cap Index, which is then screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by FTSE, the sponsor of the index, which is independent of Vanguard.
- The fund's spliced benchmark index returned -5.42% for the half year.

All returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Vanguard ESG Emerging Markets All Cap Equity Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Emerging All Cap ex Controversies/Non-Renewable Energy/Vice Products/Weapons Index.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions. US stocks held up relatively well, especially compared with European and emerging-market stocks, but still finished the half year down.
- Vanguard launched the ESG Emerging Markets All Cap Equity Index Fund toward the very end of the period, on 9 June. The fund seeks to track the FTSE Emerging All Cap ex Controversies/Non-Renewable Energy/Vice Products/Weapons Index. The index is constructed from the FTSE Emerging All Cap Index, which is then screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by FTSE, the sponsor of the index, which is independent of Vanguard.

For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

Vanguard European Stock Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Europe Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in Europe.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions. US stocks held up relatively well, especially compared with European and emerging-market stocks, but still finished the half year down.
- For the period, the fund's benchmark returned -12.78%. Of the benchmark's 11 industry sectors, only three – health care, information technology and utilities – produced positive returns. Energy, financials and real estate posted the lowest returns.
- Denmark was the only market in positive territory. Austria, Belgium and Norway produced the worst results.

All returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Vanguard Eurozone Stock Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI EMU Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks designed to capture 85% of the underlying euro zone countries' market capitalisation.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans, and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions. US stocks held up relatively well, especially compared with European and emerging-market stocks, but still finished the half-year down.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned -12.37% for the six months ended 30 June 2020.
- Of the benchmark's 11 industry sectors, only health care, information technology and utilities posted positive returns. Energy was the biggest laggard amid the drop in the price of oil, followed by financials and real estate.
- All markets in the index posted negative returns; Austria, Belgium and Spain were the poorest performers.

All returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Vanguard Global Enhanced Equity Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide a total return (income plus capital appreciation) greater than that of the MSCI World Index, while maintaining a risk profile similar to that of the index.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the MSCI World Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions. US stocks held up relatively well, especially compared with European and emerging-market stocks, but still finished the half year down.
- In this environment, the fund underperformed its benchmark index, which returned -5.77% for the six months ended 30 June 2020. The fund uses a proprietary quantitative approach to build a portfolio that seeks to outperform the benchmark without taking on substantially more risk.
- Materials were a net contributor to the fund's performance. Stock selection in financials, information technology and industrials hurt results the most.
- Stock selection in the United States, which represented more than half of the portfolio, detracted most from relative results.

All returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard Global Small-Cap Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Small Cap Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of small-cap companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans, and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions. US stocks held up relatively well, especially compared with European and emerging-market stocks, but still finished the half-year down.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned -12.87% for the six months ended 30 June 2020.
- Only two of the index's 11 industry sectors posted positive results – health care and information technology. Energy, financials and real estate turned in the poorest performances.
- The return from US stocks, which account for more than half the market value of the index, was roughly in line with that of the index as a whole. Denmark was the only country to post a positive return. The United Kingdom, Norway and France were among the countries that posted declines of more than 20%.

All returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Vanguard Global Stock Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global bonds experienced high volatility, but returned roughly 3% in US dollars for the six months, according to the Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Bond Index.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans, and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned -5.77% for the six months ended 30 June 2020.
- US stocks, which account for almost two-thirds of the market value of the index, posted a smaller decline than the index as a whole. Switzerland and Germany also held up relatively well. The UK, France, Australia and Canada were among the laggards.
- Only three of the index's 11 industry sectors posted positive results – information technology, health care and consumer discretionary. Energy, financials, real estate and industrials declined by double digits.

All returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Vanguard Japan Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Japan Index, which emphasises stocks of companies located in Japan.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans, and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions. US stocks held up relatively well, supporting market-capitalization-weighted measures of global stock performance. Japanese stocks, along with European and emerging-market stocks, were harder hit.
- The fund's benchmark index returned -7.18% for the six months ended 30 June 2020. Roughly three-quarters of the stocks in the index recorded negative returns.
- Results were negative in nine of the index's 11 sectors. Industrials, financials and consumer discretionary detracted the most from returns. Health care and communication services were the only positive performers.

All returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Pacific ex-Japan Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in the Pacific region.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans, and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions.
- The fund's benchmark index returned -13.03% for the six months ended 30 June 2020.
- Ten of the index's 11 sectors recorded negative results. Financials detracted the most from returns, followed by real estate, industrials and energy. Only health care registered a positive return.
- Singapore and Hong Kong are among the most export-dependent economies in the world and, amid a sharp slowdown in global trade, both contributed meaningfully to the index's decline. Stocks in Singapore and Hong Kong returned about -21% and -10%, respectively. Australian stocks returned about -14%, but they accounted for more than half the index during the period and thus drove the index's loss. Stocks in New Zealand gained roughly 7% but accounted for only about 2% of the benchmark.

All returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Vanguard SRI European Stock Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund aims to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed Europe Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks of large and mid-sized companies in developed countries in Europe.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions. US stocks held up relatively well, especially compared with European and emerging-market stocks, but still finished the half year down.
- For the period, the fund's benchmark returned -12.66%. Only three of the benchmark's ten industry sectors – technology, health care and utilities – were in positive territory. Oil and gas, financials and consumer services posted the lowest returns.
- Denmark was the only market with positive returns. Austria, Norway and the United Kingdom produced the worst results.

All returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Vanguard U.S. 500 Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the S&P 500 Index, a widely recognised benchmark of US stock market performance that is dominated by the stocks of large US companies.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans, and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions. US stocks held up relatively well, especially compared with European and emerging-market stocks, but still finished the half year down.
- The fund's benchmark index returned -3.37%, as nine of its industry sectors posted negative results.
- At the sector level, only information technology and consumer discretionary recorded positive returns. The biggest detractors were energy, financials, industrials and utilities.

All returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Vanguard U.S. Fundamental Value Fund

Sub-managed by Pzena Investment Management, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term capital growth by investing mainly in large companies whose stocks are considered undervalued.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the Russell 1000 Value Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down. They pared those losses in the second quarter, however, as numerous trials for a vaccine helped brighten investor sentiment, authorities enacted the massive fiscal and monetary stimulus plans, and some countries began to lift lockdown restrictions. US stocks held up relatively well, especially compared with European and emerging-market stocks, but still finished the half year down.
- In this environment, the fund underperformed its benchmark index, which returned -16.61% for the half year.
- Security selection in consumer discretionary, financials, information technology and industrials was the biggest detractor from the fund's relative performance. Selection in financials and real estate added less than 1 percentage point of relative value combined.

All returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard U.S. Opportunities Fund

Sub-managed by PRIMECAP Management Company.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by investing in stocks with above-average earnings growth potential that is not reflected in their current market prices.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the Russell 3000 Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.

US stocks held up relatively well, especially compared with European and emerging-market stocks, but still finished the half year down.
- The fund's benchmark index returned -3.75% as eight of its industry sectors recorded negative results.
- The fund trailed its benchmark. Relative performance was hurt by security selection in industrials, information technology and consumer discretionary. Selection in health care and financials provided the biggest boost.

All returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard 20+ Year Euro Treasury Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Barclays Euro Treasury 20+ Year Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury securities with maturities of at least 20 years and a minimum credit rating of AA–.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down, but they pared those losses in the second quarter.
- Global bonds experienced high volatility as well but produced solid returns for the period. Liquidity in the bond markets eroded and yield spreads widened between corporates and Treasuries in March, as the outlook for the economy worsened. By 30 June, however, central bank actions and more optimistic investor expectations for the economy had given global bonds a boost.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 8.18% for the six months ended 30 June 2020.
- Austria posted a double-digit return, and France, the largest constituent in the index, also outperformed; the Netherlands and Finland were among the laggards.
- By maturity, bonds maturing in more than 30 years returned significantly more than those maturing in 20 to 30 years. From a credit-quality perspective, AA-rated Treasury bonds did better than those rated AAA.

All returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Bond Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide total return while generating a moderate level of income by investing primarily in bonds of issuers in emerging market countries.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the J.P. Morgan EMBI Global Diversified Index, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- After opening 2020 with positive performance, emerging-market bonds fell into a historic downturn. At the end of the first quarter, the fund's benchmark index had a three-month total return of -13.38%, dramatically trailing the global bond market overall, which had a small gain.
- During the initial sell-off, investors discriminated little between high- and low-quality issues, and spreads in investment-grade and high-yield emerging-market bonds widened meaningfully. Emerging markets debt lagged the initial leg of the credit rebound but quickly began to catch up as the second quarter progressed, with spreads recovering more than 60% of March's widening.
- For the six months ended 30 June 2020, the fund outpaced the -2.76% return of its benchmark.
- Heading into the market decline, the fund was defensively positioned with ample liquidity. As spreads widened, the adviser invested more heavily in what had been some of the fund's largest underweight positions at prices well below perceived recovery values and increased the fund's exposure to high-quality issues that had been punished by the market.
- Security selection, as opposed to asset allocation across emerging-market regions, drove the fund's outperformance. Selection in Latin America, especially Ecuador and Panama, proved especially helpful. In Asia, the fund benefited from underweighted stakes in Sri Lanka and Malaysia, as well as from selection in Malaysia.
- Currency exposures were a modest drag on the fund's result relative to its benchmark.

All returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard Euro Government Bond Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Barclays Euro Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index designed to reflect the total universe of euro-denominated euro zone treasury and government-related securities with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down, but they pared those losses in the second quarter.
- Global bonds experienced high volatility as well but produced solid returns for the period. Liquidity in the bond markets eroded and yield spreads widened between corporates and Treasuries in March, as the outlook for the economy worsened. By 30 June, however, central bank actions and more optimistic investor expectations for the economy had given global bonds a boost.
- With government bond yields falling overall, the fund's benchmark returned 1.95% for the six months ended 30 June 2020.
- Among the larger constituents in the index, France and Germany outperformed the index as a whole, while Italy and Spain lagged.
- By maturity, longer-dated bonds significantly outperformed. From a credit-quality perspective, results were mixed.

All returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the period. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the period and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the period is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Euro Investment Grade Bond Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Barclays EUR Non-Government Float Adjusted Bond Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated, investment-grade fixed income securities, excluding euro zone treasury and government-related securities, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down, but they pared those losses in the second quarter.
- Global bonds experienced high volatility as well but produced solid returns for the period. Liquidity in the bond markets eroded and yield spreads widened between corporates and Treasuries in March, as the outlook for the economy worsened. By 30 June, however, central bank actions and more optimistic investor expectations for the economy had given global bonds a boost.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned -0.10% for the six months ended 30 June 2020.
- Corporate bonds, which accounted for more than half of the index, returned about -1%. Bonds issued by utilities held up better than those of financial institutions and industrial companies.
- Noncorporate bonds and securitized debt posted positive returns.
- By country, the Netherlands, Norway and Finland were among those that posted positive results, while the UK and Germany were among those that underperformed the index as a whole.
- Bonds maturing in 10 years or more managed to remain in the black. By credit quality, higher-rated bonds tended to perform better.

All returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs, and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Vanguard Eurozone Inflation-Linked Bond Index Fund

Sub-managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Barclays Global Inflation-Linked: Eurozone – Euro CPI Index, a market-weighted index of euro-denominated inflation-linked government securities within the euro zone, designed to serve as a hedge against inflation in the euro zone region, with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down, but they pared those losses in the second quarter.
- Global bonds experienced high volatility as well but produced solid returns for the period. Liquidity in the bond markets eroded and yield spreads widened between corporates and Treasuries in March, as the outlook for the economy worsened. By 30 June, however, central bank actions and more optimistic investor expectations for the economy had given global bonds a boost.
- With inflation in the euro zone dropping over the period and expected to fall even further, the fund's benchmark index returned –1.50% for the six months ended 30 June 2020.
- Italy and Spain were the worst performers. Germany and France also posted negative results.
- From a credit-quality perspective, higher-rated bonds in this category tended to hold up best. By maturity, results were more nuanced.

All returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.

Vanguard Global Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC, and sub-managed by Vanguard Investments Australia Ltd.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Float Adjusted and Scaled Index Hedged, a market-weighted index of global government, government-related agency, corporate and securitised fixed income investments with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- The outbreak of the coronavirus turned into a global health crisis in the first half of 2020, and aggressive attempts to contain it wreaked havoc with economies and financial markets worldwide. Many governments shuttered nonessential businesses and restricted trade and travel. Those measures resulted in a sharp downturn in economic activity, especially in sectors where social distancing isn't possible, and a spike in unemployment rates.
- Many central banks acted swiftly to limit the economic damage, slashing short-term interest rates, ramping up bond purchases to keep longer-term rates low and providing liquidity to financial markets. Governments atop the world's largest economies committed more than $9 trillion in spending, loans and loan guarantees to blunt the pandemic's impact, according to the International Monetary Fund.
- Global stocks ended the first quarter down sharply as the virus spread worldwide and large swaths of the economy shut down, but they pared those losses in the second quarter.
- Global bonds experienced high volatility as well but produced solid returns for the period. Liquidity in the bond markets eroded and yield spreads widened between corporates and Treasuries in March, as the outlook for the economy worsened. By 30 June, however, central bank actions and more optimistic investor expectations for the economy had given global bonds a boost.
- The fund's benchmark, which is hedged to the US dollar, returned 4.26% for the six months ended 30 June 2020.
- Among the large constituents, the United Kingdom, the United States and Canada performed well, while Japan, Spain and Italy were among the laggards.
- By sector, Treasuries, which make up about half the fund, returned almost 5%. Treasuries outpaced the returns of corporate bonds, even with their strong rebound in the second quarter, and of mortgage-backed securities.
- From a credit-quality perspective, higher-rated bonds outperformed lower-rated ones. By maturity, long-dated bonds outperformed.

All returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor. Tracking difference in the table above is in percentage points.
