Tracking Error

Each of the Funds listed in the table employs a “passive” investment strategy designed to replicate the performance of its benchmark index. Some of the Funds attempt to fully replicate the index by holding all of the component securities, in approximately the same proportion as its weighting in the index. Other Funds instead use an index sampling process, holding a representative sample of securities which approximates the full index in terms of key risk factors and other characteristics. The table below excludes actively-managed funds.

Tracking error measures the volatility of the return difference between the Fund and the index. It is calculated as the standard deviation of the tracking difference between the Fund and the index (gross of fees for the trailing 36-month period, or since the Fund’s inception if it does not have 36 months of performance history). Realised tracking error may vary from the anticipated tracking error, depending on a range of circumstances. These include transaction costs, securities lending income and withholding tax differences. The anticipated tracking error and realised tracking error are not expected to vary significantly under normal circumstances.

The Realised Tracking Error excludes adjustments for swing pricing.

Vanguard Emerging Markets Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the MSCI Emerging Markets Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of companies in emerging markets.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Inflation and policymakers' efforts to rein it in stood centre stage for the financial markets during much of the six months ended 30 June 2023.
- Early in the period, labour markets, consumer spending, economic growth and corporate profits held up well overall, and inflation readings in many developed markets continued to decline from recent multidecade highs. Central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England continued raising interest rates – but through less aggressive hikes than in some policy meetings in 2022.
- Later, volatility picked up amid slow progress on the inflation front, banking sector turmoil in the US and Europe and concerns that the US government might default on its debt.
- By the close of the period, however, investor sentiment had improved, with resilient economic data making the odds of a global recession anytime soon seem less likely.
- Stocks ended the period up more than 13%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index. By region, Europe performed roughly in line with stocks as a whole. The US outperformed; Asia-Pacific and emerging markets lagged but still finished in positive territory.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 4.89% for the six months. Returns were positive in seven of 11 industry sectors, with information technology, financials and communication services contributing most to the index return.
- Among markets, Taiwan and South Korea contributed most to the index return. China, the largest market in the index with an average weight of more than 30%, detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard ESG Developed World All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by seeking to achieve the performance of the FTSE Developed All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Inflation and policymakers' efforts to rein it in stood centre stage for the financial markets during much of the six months ended 30 June 2023.
- Early in the period, labour markets, consumer spending, economic growth and corporate profits held up well overall, and inflation readings in many developed markets continued to decline from recent multidecade highs. Central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England continued raising interest rates – but through less aggressive hikes than in some policy meetings in 2022.
- Later, volatility picked up amid slow progress on the inflation front, banking sector turmoil in the US and Europe and concerns that the US government might default on its debt.
- By the close of the period, however, investor sentiment had improved, with resilient economic data making the odds of a global recession anytime soon seem less likely.
- Stocks ended the period up more than 13%, as measured by the FTSE Global All Cap Index. By region, Europe performed roughly in line with stocks as a whole. The US outperformed; Asia-Pacific and emerging markets lagged but still finished in positive territory.
- In this environment, the fund's benchmark index returned 16.58% for the six months. The index is constructed from the FTSE Developed All Cap Index, which is screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by the sponsor of the index, which is independent of Vanguard.
- All but one of the benchmark's 11 sectors had positive returns, with technology, consumer discretionary and industrials adding the most to performance.
- US stocks, which account for more than two-thirds of the index, contributed the most to the benchmark's positive performance.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard ESG Emerging Markets All Cap Equity Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to track the performance of the FTSE Emerging All Cap Choice Index.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Inflation and policymakers' efforts to rein it in stood centre stage for the financial markets during much of the first half of 2023. Early in the period, labour markets, consumer spending, economic growth and corporate profits held up well overall, and inflation readings in many developed markets continued to decline from recent multidecade highs. Central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England continued raising interest rates – but through less aggressive hikes than in some policy meetings in 2022.
- Later, volatility picked up amid slow progress on the inflation front, banking sector turmoil in the US and Europe and concerns that the US government might default on its debt. By the close of the period, however, investor sentiment had improved, with resilient economic data making the odds of a global recession anytime soon seem less likely.
- Stocks ended the period up significantly. By region, Europe and the US performed better than Asia-Pacific and emerging markets. The fund's benchmark index returned 3.98% for the six months ended 30 June 2023. The index is constructed from the FTSE Emerging All Cap Index, which is screened for certain environmental, social and corporate governance criteria by the sponsor of the index, which is independent of Vanguard.
- More than half of the 11 sectors in the index posted negative results. Real estate and health care stocks detracted the most from performance.
- Among markets, Chinese stocks, which represented about one-third of the index's market value, returned –8.32%.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard European Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI Europe Index, which is made up of common stocks of companies located in Europe.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Inflation and policymakers' efforts to rein it in stood centre stage for the financial markets during much of the six months ended 30 June 2023.
- Early in the period, labour markets, consumer spending, economic growth and corporate profits held up well overall, and inflation readings in many developed markets continued to decline from recent multidecade highs. Central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England continued raising interest rates – but through less aggressive hikes than in some policy meetings in 2022.
- Later, volatility picked up amid slow progress on the inflation front, banking sector turmoil in the US and Europe and concerns that the US government might default on its debt.
- By the close of the period, however, investor sentiment had improved, with resilient economic data making the odds of a global recession anytime soon seem less likely.
- Stocks ended the period up significantly. By region, Europe and the US performed better than Asia-Pacific and emerging markets.
- The fund's benchmark index returned 13.59% for the six months. Of the benchmark's 11 sectors, consumer discretionary, industrials, financials and information technology contributed most to results. Real estate, the only sector with a negative return, detracted.
- Among the largest markets in the benchmark, France, Germany, the United Kingdom and Switzerland were the top contributors.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

The Central Bank of Ireland requires a schedule of material changes in the composition of the portfolio during the period. These are defined as aggregate purchases of a security exceeding 1% of the total value of purchases for the period and aggregate disposals greater than 1% of the total value of sales. At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the period is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.

Vanguard Eurozone Stock Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI EMU Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of common stocks designed to capture 85% of the underlying euro zone countries' market capitalisation.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Inflation and policymakers' efforts to rein it in stood centre stage for the financial markets during much of the six months ended 30 June 2023.
- Early in the period, labour markets, consumer spending, economic growth and corporate profits held up well overall, and inflation readings in many developed markets continued to decline from recent multidecade highs. Central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England continued raising interest rates – but through less aggressive hikes than in some policy meetings in 2022.
- Later, volatility picked up amid slow progress on the inflation front, banking sector turmoil in the US and Europe and concerns that the US government might default on its debt.
- By the close of the period, however, investor sentiment had improved, with resilient economic data making the odds of a global recession anytime soon seem less likely.
- Stocks ended the period up significantly. By region, Europe and the US performed better than Asia-Pacific and emerging markets.
- For the period, the fund's benchmark returned 15.29%. Most sectors contributed strongly to returns; standouts included consumer discretionary, information technology, industrials and financials. Energy stocks detracted slightly from performance.
- Among markets, France and Germany were the top contributors, followed by the Netherlands, Spain and Italy.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in euros.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Small-Cap Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Global Advisers, LLC.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide long-term growth of capital by tracking the performance of the MSCI World Small Cap Index, a market-capitalisation-weighted index of small-cap companies in developed countries.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- Inflation and policymakers' efforts to rein it in stood centre stage for the financial markets during much of the first half of 2023. Early in the period, labour markets, consumer spending, economic growth and corporate profits held up well overall, and inflation readings in many developed markets continued to decline from recent multidecade highs. Central banks including the US Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England continued raising interest rates – but through less aggressive hikes than in some policy meetings in 2022.
- Later, volatility picked up amid slow progress on the inflation front, banking sector turmoil in the US and Europe and concerns that the US government might default on its debt. By the close of the period, however, investor sentiment had improved, with resilient economic data making the odds of a global recession anytime soon seem less likely.
- Stocks ended the period up significantly. By region, Europe and the US performed better than Asia-Pacific and emerging markets. The fund's benchmark index returned 7.64% for the six months ended 30 June 2023.
- Results were negative in eight of the benchmark's 11 sectors. Industrials, information technology and consumer discretionary helped performance the most.
- US stocks, which accounted for more than half the index, contributed most to results.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

At a minimum, the largest 20 purchases and 20 sales must be shown; all purchases and sales must be shown if there are fewer than 20. A full listing of the portfolio changes for the period is available, upon request, at no extra cost from the Administrator.
